Airplane squadron leads search exercise near Whitecourt

By JEFF CUMMINGS
Metro Edmonton

Helicopters, rescue crews and search aircraft roared over Whitecourt yesterday practising what they do best — looking for lost aircraft.

When a flight disappears off a radar screen somewhere in Western Canada, chances are the 435 "Chinthe" Transport and Rescue Squadron will get the call.

Equipped with hulking KCC-130 Hercules airplanes, the squadron is on call 24/7 covering an area from Quebec City to the B.C. border, and all the way the Arctic.

"We're out here to save lives when it might seem to some that it will be almost unlikely that survivors will ever be found," said squadron team leader Master Cpl. Kaulin Damron during the exercise near Whitecourt, about 200 kilometres northwest of Edmonton.

Metro on hand

» Metro Edmonton reporter Jeff Cummings and photographer Ben Lemphers were the only media representatives to join 435 "Chinthe" Transport and Rescue Squadron in Whitecourt yesterday for a major exercise.

» On hand were more than 120 people and aircraft ranging from the mighty Hercules, a Griffon helicopter and a Twin Otter.

When a person is stranded or a flight has crashed, the squadron sends out its Hercs, packed with everything from chainsaws, survival gear and medical equipment to food.

Using GPS technology, along with high-tech mapping and guiding system, pilots fly the large airplanes in straight lines over a search area that could stretch as far as 300 km.

Like mowing a lawn, the plane will spend hours flying back and forth over the search area, making sure no corners have been missed.

While the Hercules is in flight, rescuers inside stare at the ground below from the machine's large glass windows to find anything that seems out of the ordinary, using night goggles after the sun sets.

"Being in a Hercules, it's better than a search helicopter only if the site is at a longer distance simply because we can respond to it first," said Maj. Kelly Freitag during an operation exercise.

"We can also stay out a long time."

If a flight has crashed in forested rough terrain, for example, rescuers will look for broken branches — a key clue in discovering a crash site.

"You are also looking for fires, smoke. If we see anything unusual we will go in and check it out."

Once the crash site has been spotted, six paratroopers will jump off the plane and will offer medical attention, along with clearing space for emergency crews to get at a scene that is often remote and hard to get to.

The squadron, along with members from the volunteer-based Civil Air Search and Rescue Association and the U.S. Air Force, wrapped up a three-day practice "scenario" mission in finding a broken-down plane that carried seven passengers.

Off-duty officer accused of DUI

Driver trapped in burning vehicle as BMW hits pickup

By VICTORIA HANDYSIDES
Metro Edmonton

An Edmonton city police officer faces a long list of drinking and driving charges after the BMW he was driving early yesterday morning allegedly ran a red light and smashed into the side of a pickup truck, trapping the driver inside as it burst into flames.

Just after 2 a.m. Sunday, the off-duty officer and three passengers were travelling south on 75 Street, when the vehicle allegedly blew through a red light at an intersection on an overpass above Whitemud Drive.

At the same time, an east-bound Ford pickup truck took a left turn at the intersection through a green light. The BMW smashed into the driver's side of the truck, causing it to flip on its side serious burns

» The driver of the truck was taken to hospital suffering from a broken collarbone and serious burns. Two other occupants of the truck and one passenger in the car were also taken to hospital with minor injuries.

and burst into flames.

Three occupants inside the truck were able to get out quickly, but the 18-year-old driver was left trapped inside. Within seconds, bystanders at the scene rushed to the man's aid, flipped the truck back on its wheels, and pulled the man to safety.

"It's an amazing feat to see people respond so quickly," said Edmonton Police Services spokeswoman Karen Carlson. "It's incredible that the injuries suffered were not more serious than they were."

Douglas Kurtis Brown, 29, a three-year veteran of the Edmonton Police Service, has been charged with three counts of impaired driving causing bodily harm, three counts of dangerous driving causing bodily harm and one count of driving with a blood alcohol level over 0.08.

Brown works as a constable in the Downtown Division. He has been suspended from his duties with pay.

"These are charges that we take very seriously," Carlson said. "These are charges that were laid without hesitation."

Customer hinders robbery

By VICTORIA HANDYSIDES
Metro Edmonton

A robbery was thwarted at a north-end convenience store this weekend after a youth, armed with a rock and a plastic knife, was tackled by a quick-thinking customer.

Just after 3 a.m. on Saturday, the 16-year-old would-be robber entered a store on 114 Avenue and Groat Road, demanding cash and cigarettes.

Within seconds, a male patron of the store threw the suspect to the ground and held him until police arrived.

No injuries were reported in the incident, but Edmonton police warn the outcome could have been much different.

"Overall as a police service, we don't encourage people to get involved like that," said police spokeswoman Karen Carlson. "Thankfully it worked out that nobody was injured, but certainly there could have been the flipside where a number of people were injured."

Carlson said that the best thing storeowners can do to protect themselves in the event of a robbery is to have a high-quality surveillance system installed, so that police can better identify robbers after the fact.

It is best for store employees and patrons to comply with demands in the event of a robbery, as potential for injury is high for those who try to intervene, Carlson added.

The 16-year-old male, who cannot be named under the Youth Criminal Justice Act, has been charged with one count of robbery and two counts of possession of a weapon.

Group looks on as cops attacked

Three bar patrons facing charges

By VICTORIA HANDYSIDES
Metro Edmonton

A pair of downtown beat officers got more than they bargained for on the weekend when they were attacked by a group of bar patrons they'd been dispatched to control.

At 2:30 a.m. Saturday, the officers approached a rowdy group on a sidewalk in front of the Oil City Roadhouse at 107 Street and Jasper Avenue.

After the two officers broke up a fight within the group, a number of people headed to the alley behind the bar, where the officers were attacked.

A group of about a dozen people circled the fight and watched.

"There were three males that thought they could take on two officers," said Edmonton Police Services spokeswoman Karen Carlson. "It's very disturbing that this kind of action was taken against our officers."

After a bystander in the group called 9-1-1, multiple units were dispatched to assist the officers, including Air-1.

"The crowd slowly dispersed as more officers arrived, but luckily the two officers involved were able to keep their hands on the three that were causing the problem," Carlson said.

Carlos Rivera, 37, James Lemire, 29, and David Lemire, 25, are charged with assaulting a peace officer and obstruction.

The two officers involved were not seriously injured, and walked away with minor bruising.

Inferno Car hits gas station

Firefighters work to control a fire that ignited at Triple 5 Auto & Gas on 99 Street and 87 Avenue shortly before 2 a.m. yesterday after a car smashed through a gas pump and into the building. Witnesses say they saw the driver flee on foot. Police believe a man who ran out into traffic shortly afterward was linked to the incident. He was taken to hospital after being hit by two cars.

PM stalling on probes?

NAFTA-gate and Mulroney inquiries yet to be launched

With MPs scheduled to head home soon for the summer, opposition parties are accusing Prime Minister Stephen Harper of stalling on two high-profile investigations that could prove embarrassing or awkward for his government.

Harper is under increasing pressure to get to the bottom of the scandal over leaks on NAFTA and to move ahead with a public inquiry into the Mulroney-Schreiber affair — a probe he promised in November.

The Prime Minister is taking much too long to investigate the leak from his office on Feb. 26 that led to American complaints that Canada interfered in United States domestic affairs, says NDP Deputy House Leader Joe Comartin.

It has been nine weeks since Harper said the government would investigate this so-called NAFTA-gate incident, which caused an uproar because it ultimately hurt Barack Obama's bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

EnCana plans split

Move would create separate oil and natural gas firms

EnCana Corp., Canada's biggest energy company, said yesterday it plans to split into two separate oil and natural gas firms in an effort to wring out more value with crude prices at record highs.

EnCana, formed in a merger six years ago, said the move should help investors better gauge the parts of its business and remove a discount it says it suffers in the stock market.

The new oil firm will operate Alberta oilsands and U.S. refining assets, which EnCana holds as part of a joint venture with ConocoPhillips. It will also hang onto Canadian plains natural gas assets.

The natural gas firm will operate Canadian foothills and U.S. properties, located mainly in the Rocky Mountain states and Texas. REUTERS

Tornadoes kill 22

Destruction seen across central, southeastern U.S.

Tornadoes killed at least 22 people and injured hundreds as they ripped through communities in the central and southeastern United States over the weekend.

Authorities said 14 people died in Missouri, six in Oklahoma and two in Georgia as the storms tracked a course from the border of Kansas and Oklahoma Saturday into Georgia yesterday, destroying homes, overturning cars, blocking roads, downing power lines and uprooting trees.

Ten people died in Newton County, Missouri, on the border with Oklahoma, according to Susie Stonner of the Missouri Emergency Management Agency, adding that police had not ruled out finding more victims.

Hardest hit was Racine, a tiny community in Newton

County about 275 kilometres south of Kansas City.

The path of destruction was a mile wide in some places, said Jason Schumann, a meteorologist with the National Weather Service in Missouri.

"This looks like a very large tornado," he said. "We've got indications of cars that were thrown a quarter to a half mile, and frame homes that were swept off their foundations."

Pisani worthy of NHL honour

Good guys do finish first.

Fernando Pisani isn't only a pretty good hockey player, the soft-spoken hometown boy made good with the Edmonton Oilers is one of the finest people I've met in 25 years rattling around hockey rinks.

It was more than satisfying, then, to get on the telephone late last week and let Pisani know his courageous comeback from a career-threatening bout of ulcerative colitis has made him a finalist for the Bill Masterton Memorial Trophy.

Pisani, 31, Detroit Red Wings defenceman Chris Chelios and Toronto Maple Leafs winger Jason Blake are the three finalists for the award, presented to the player who best exemplifies the qualities of perseverance, sportsmanship and dedication to hockey.

Pisani has shown plenty of all three.

"It's an honour," said Pisani, who is vacationing in Arizona. "It's one of those things where you're happy people recognize things you've gone through as an individual. There was a time when it was very scary not knowing what would happen."

Most Oilers fans know Pisani's story, but his being named a finalist makes it obvious his comeback has resonated around the NHL. The Masterton is voted on by members of the Professional Hockey Writers Association in all 30 cities.

Pisani had been battling the condition — it's a chronic inflammation of the large intestine — since being diagnosed with it in 2005 when it worsened in the summer of 2007.

In a span of mere weeks, he lost almost 40 pounds. Pisani was bed-ridden and later hospitalized. He was facing career-ending surgery before a new course of drug therapy put him on the road to recovery.

The expectation was

AROUND THE RINK

ROBIN BROWNLEE

he'd miss the entire 2007-08 season while recovering, but after sitting out the Oilers first 26 games, Pisani returned to the lineup Dec. 2 in Anaheim.

"You don't go through something like this thinking you can get an award," Pisani said. "You just want people to be aware. Something that scares me is this is something that affects kids."

Pisani told his story in a recent Hockey News blog. He's active around Edmonton in fundraising and has lent his efforts to a golf tournament to raise money for Crohn's disease and Colitis.

"I couldn't imagine anyone's kid going through that," he said. "It scares me every day worrying if my kids will ever have to go through that situation. I don't want anybody to go through something like this."

The Masterton will be presented at the NHL awards in Toronto on June 12.

Saving trees with digital data

Survey indicates Canadians want to save paper

By RAFAEL BRUSILOV
for Metro Edmonton

A new study reveals the average working Canadian prints 30 pages of documents every day, of which 12 are thrown into the garbage.

The Leger Marketing study, produced in tandem with Recombo Paper Management Systems and Telus Corporation highlighted the need for waste paper management policies and digital document handling to reduce paper use in the workplace.

The study also showed that about half of Canadians surveyed would gladly use digital documentation in order to reduce paper waste at their place of work.

Joe Pach, director of environment at Telus, says the company is committed to reducing paper through the introduction of paperless contracts for its business accounts, which use secure digital signatures and interactive menus to eschew the need for paper. The documents are protected by encryption and fully legally binding.

Pach explains that the initiative, called Telus Secure Contracts, is meant to reduce paper waste in high-volume businesses that tend to use the most paper.

"The average company makes something like 19 copies of each customer-facing document. Having a virtual interface eliminates that need to move paper around — it's a way of dealing with contracts that is secure, digital and does away with paper," Pach said.

A move to paperless documents is quietly making its way into the working world, though progress is still slow.

Several years ago, the law office of Behiel, Munkler & Will in Saskatchewan took 20,000 documents and files and scanned them into a digital format, letting the files be sent electronically and stored on hard drives instead of in filing cabinets. The company also converted many document processes, such as the filling of wills and land survey forms, to a digital format. Aaron Behiel, a partner at the firm, admits however that many people still end up asking for paper copies of documents, though the initiative has been a success at saving paper overall.

Pach suggests the acceptance of paper-saving initiatives such as digital documentation is being fuelled at the grassroots level by employees themselves who want the companies they work for to be good corporate citizens. Luckily for businesses, saving paper saves money as well.

"Employees today feel guilty about wasting paper and are expecting their employers will take the lead on environmental conservation. You want to look at the cost savings as well — there are benefits beyond the environmental element," Pach said.

Pach says the move to digital documents also makes sense from a standpoint of efficiency.

«The average company makes something like 19 copies of each customer-facing document. Having a virtual interface eliminates that need to move paper around — it's a way of dealing with contracts that is secure, digital and does away with paper.»

"Who wants to stand at a printer watching bits of paper come out when they could be more efficiently engaged? We're in the business of moving ideas and information rather than people and paper," Pach said.

Job hunting for a new age

Job hunting has become something of a sport in its own right. Gone are the days where the simple mailed out paper resumé sufficed. Today companies are taking an active role in searching out top talent. The market is moving at a faster rate with e-mail applications and Google background checks, keeping up isn't easy, which is why many job hunters are creating portfolio websites.

"Finding that first job is a daunting task, especially if you're looking for something specific," says recent graduate and innovative job hunter Michael Sefcik.

"I wanted to go beyond the traditional one-page resumé and provide potential employers with more information about me," he explains, "I wanted to stand out from other applicants and showcase all of my past experiences in an innovative way."

Sefcik, 25, recently graduated from Lund University in Sweden with his masters and previously received his bachelor of arts at York University.

Disheartened by the way traditional job sites present online resumé — which are only available to recruiters who are registered to the job site — Sefcik wanted more.

"Sure, job seekers can create an online resume, but more often than not, it's limited to a lacklustre text version."

He was inspired to create an online resumé after browsing through the professional websites of university professors and graphic designers.

"Professors often wrote in great detail about their research, whereas designers used portfolios to provide samples of their work. I thought to myself, it would be impossible for them to fit everything onto one piece of paper, but a website on the other hand, is the perfect medium."

"When looking for information about someone I immediately turn to the Internet. I think whether we like it or not, more and more personal information will end up online," says Sefcik, "The important thing then, is to manage our online identity in a way that is helpful to ourselves and others, but also respects our privacy."

Resumé and portfolios also usually contain personal information that makes safety an essential matter, which Sefcik says he took into consideration during the build of his site.

Next week Sefcik breaks down how you too can build your own portfolio website in three easy steps and how effective his website has been so far.

Covering Waits

Scarlett Johansson takes 'private' songs public

Scarlett Johansson describes the recording of her Tom Waits covers album, Anywhere I Lay My Head, as an "intimate experience — almost most private, in a way."

Of course, when you're a Hollywood actress, Louis Vuitton model and occasional tabloid fixture, pretty much nothing is private.

That's the challenge facing Atco/Rhino Records as it promotes the album, due May 20. Johansson is a familiar face — and name recognition is a definite marketing bonus — but the phrase "actress-turned-singer" is bound to set off warning bells.

"I don't think being a celebrity is a hindrance — I think it will get people curious," project manager Liuba Shapiro said. "It's not like a Paris (Hilton) brand. Scarlett has credible performances (as an actress)."

Johansson's take on Waits, thanks in part to her teaming with TV on the Radio's Dave Sitek for production, as well as Yeah Yeah Yeahs guitarist Nick Zinner and David Bowie on backing vocals, is an atmospheric reinvention of the gravelly voiced singer's work. It's designed to appeal to those curious about Johansson's vocal prowess, Waits fans and those who like their melodies layered and dreamy.

Scarlett Johansson covers Tom Waits on her upcoming album.

The album has Waits' stamp of approval, Johansson said. "It would be mortifying otherwise. It's such a valentine for his work. I

The video for first single Falling Down, directed by Oscar-nominated Capote helmer Bennett Miller, is a cinema verite look at a day in the life of Johansson, including photo shoots and kicking back with Salman Rushdie.

In terms of touring, Johansson's movie-shooting schedule makes it difficult to plan dates. The album, in fact, was recorded last summer but could only be released now because of her schedule, the label said. Another complicating factor is what Johansson calls her "crippling stage fright."

DMX 'barricaded himself'

Rapper arrested for animal cruelty, drug possession

Rap star DMX was arrested on Friday on suspicion of drug possession and animal cruelty after two searches of his home allegedly turned up weapons, drugs, dog carcasses and abused pit bulls.

The Maricopa County Sheriff's Office said DMX, 37, whose real name is Earl Simmons, initially barricaded himself in his bedroom when officers arrived at his home at 3 a.m.

He eventually surrendered without offering further resistance.

"We are handling this case as we would any other incident of alleged animal cruelty," Maricopa County

Phoenix-area police arrested rapper DMX on suspicion of drug possession and animal cruelty.

Attorney Andrew Thomas said in a statement.

It was the second time this week DMX, who rose to fame with hardcore rap songs and hit albums like It's Dark and Hell is Hot, has run afoul of Arizona authorities.

On Tuesday, state police arrested him for driving at speeds as high as 114 miles per hour (183 kph) on a freeway.

Police first raided his home in the Cave Creek community near Phoenix last August.

They found 12 distressed pit bulls and three dead animals partially buried on the property as well as a number of firearms.

An indictment was issued on seven counts of animal cruelty after the August raid.

Police staged Friday's raid to arrest DMX on charges from their initial investigation.

This time, they also found unspecified illegal drugs and five more pit bull puppies, which they removed from the house.

Said Sheriff Joe Arpaio: "With all his money and fame, (DMX) has no excuse for not providing proper care for his animals."

DMX pleaded guilty in New Jersey to animal cruelty charges in 2002 for neglecting some 13 pit bulls, according to news reports.

As part of his sentence, he was required to make a public service announcement against animal abuse.

He has also faced previous charges of possession of marijuana and assault.

The rapper has sold more than 20 million albums. The cover art for one of his recent CDs, Year of the Dog ... Again depicts him restraining a snarling pit bull on a chain.

While he is best known as a rapper, DMX also has acted in several movies including Romeo Must Die and Exit Wounds.

Mid-century modern's hot

Shag accents, retro accessories seriously hip

If you like your interiors a little funky, then sit back, put your Austin Powers DVD on the telly and prepare for shag-tastic inspiration! Or read on.

Yup, today, we're all about the '60s and the '70s and we've got great advice if you want to go retro. And forget about spending a fortune — with a C and J scheme you always get loads of bang for your buck...

Set your backdrop. Retro has loads of visual punch so paint walls a bright shade; fresh white latex is a great starting point and will "open up" even the smallest space.

Keep window dressing unfussy. Try simple white sheers and add "pops" of colour with rollers. If you want to shell out on gorgeous funky investment blinds try Hunter Douglas (hunterdouglas.com) or visit Ikea for more affordable choices.

Less is more. On this week's show, rather than be too literal and floor everything — wall to wall — in shag, we used white Karndean flexible "planks" (visit karndean.ca for a free CD planning pack) to create a warm heaven for the tootsies. And to add texture? We added shag area rugs from Dominion (dominionrugs.com) Gorgeous!

"Low slung" rules!

COLIN & JUSTIN'S INTERIOR DIVINE

Choose Danish sideboards, teak coffee tables and even quirky beanbags!

The 1960s was all about serviceability and ease of maintenance so upholstery fabrics were often wipe-clean vinyl or leather. Popular was a primary palette of red, blue and yellow but, to mix it up a little, we took this week's scheme in a slightly different direction.

Instead of "bright" upholstery we used a rich chocolate brown leather sectional from The Bay and brought it to life with zesty Hermes orange woollen cushions and throws. Remember — it's all in the mix.

Tip: "Period" artwork doesn't need to cost a fortune. When cash is tight, a little creative thinking saves a fortune. To add a seriously original statement we bought a dozen clip frames from a dollar store, inserted orange card in some and brown in others then positioned circles of orange or brown card on their opposing colour bases. Arranged in a regimented line they look awesome and are reminiscent of statement wallpapers from the '60s!

Hit garage and yard sales and be amazed at some of the brightly coloured ceramics and glass wares that can be snapped up for just a few dollars each.

But you'd better be fast — "Mid-Century Modern" is becoming seriously hip. In the words of Austin Powers: It's "Groovy, baby!" And in the words of Colin and Justin? It's "Pricier, baby ... by the minute!" So get shopping ... while there are still some bargains to be had.

HGTV hosts Colin and Justin continue their mission of beautification with their Canadian design series Colin & Justin's Home Show, airing Tuesday at 11 p.m., and Saturday at 4 p.m. ET on HGTV (www.hgtv.ca).

Liv 'great' after separation

Actress Liv Tyler is bouncing back from her separation from rocker husband Royston Langdon according to her dad, usmagazine.com reports.

"Liv is doing great," Aerosmith's Steven Tyler said.

The couple have a three-year-old son, Milo.

"They remain good friends and devoted parents to their son Milo and are requesting that their family's privacy be respected at this time," the rep said late last week.

Tyler, 30, married the Arckid rocker, 36, in 2003.

A source reportedly overheard the actress seeking advice from a lawyer on the phone.

Tyler, who said in 2004, "I don't believe in divorce," told Us magazine in February she had forgotten about Valentine's Day.

Lindsay stole my clothes: Model

Lindsay Lohan's enemies are coming out of hiding in the wake of her fur-coat controversy — and now a model is rehashing her claims that Lohan stole her clothing, as well, People.com reports.

The same week a Columbia University student insisted Lohan swiped her $11,000 US blond mink coat in New York City earlier this year, model Lauren Hastings says on the buzznet.com website that the actress lifted thousands of dollars worth of items from her closet, Inside Edition reports.

"Basically, I have two closets, a lot of the stuff was missing out of one and the next closet was almost completely empty," Hastings says on a video featured on the buzznet site, claiming her things disappeared during an unauthorized late-night party tossed by her housesitter.

Citing five witnesses, Hastings, 23, also alleges, "They all said they saw Lindsay Lohan basically in my closet, handing a bag of clothes to her bodyguard."

In an e-mail to People, Lohan's rep responds: "This is all not true. It's not what it seems."

Police reportedly searched for the missing items, but they were not recovered.

According to documents that Inside Edition obtained from the Los Angeles County District Attorney's office, Hastings did report the theft of clothing, but the DA's office pressed no charges against Lohan, due to insufficient evidence.

"I contacted Lindsay and said, 'Look, I know you stole my clothes.' She then said I was completely delusional, I was pathetic," Hastings said.

Miley too busy for boyfriend

Singer/actress Miley Cyrus is too busy to have a serious boyfriend, and insists her life in the spotlight is "too much to handle" for any potential suitors, femalefirst.co.uk reports.

The 15-year-old, who has been linked to fellow teen singer Nick Jonas, the youngest of the Jonas Brothers, admits her hectic lifestyle has ruined any chance of a love life right now, although she prefers to be the elusive girl "no one can get."

"I think I'm too much to handle right now," Cyrus says. "There's so much going on in my life at the moment with travelling and there's always cameras following me, all that kind of stuff. I don't think it's great for dating anyone. There are guys I like to hang out with, but I like to be the girl who no one can get. I think that's always hotter anyway."

The digits 1 through 9 will appear exactly once in each row, each column, and each zone. (A zone is an outlined 3x3 grid within the larger puzzle grid. There are nine of these zones in the puzzle.) Do not enter a digit into a box if it already appears elsewhere in the same 3x3 zone, or in the same row across the puzzle, or column down the puzzle.
